2016 Season Outlook

The Bulldogs Look to Show "We is Greater than Me"

There's a different vibe going around the Ramsey Center. There's a spirit and intensity from coaches and student-athletes that's echoing in the locker room and gym, providing a constant energy to keep striving for higher goals.

That competitive drive has the Bulldogs working together as one, and as the 2016 season gets set to kick off, this year's team is set to show that "WE is greater than me."

"In 2016, our team focus is lifting each other up to be the best WE that Georgia Volleyball has to offer," said sixth-year head coach Lizzy Stemke."Volleyball is the ultimate team sport in which every moving part relies on the next. We have worked extensively on our relationships and trust off the court, and we have seen great improvements within the dimensions of the volleyball court because of this work. We are thrilled and excited to get the season started, and WE will be keeping our focus on ways to improve and stay united towards a vision that is greater than any one person on our roster."

Stemke and her staff will work with an experienced team, as 13 letterwinners return from last season's squad, all of which saw playing time on the court. Highlighting that crew is a trio of seniors: Elle McCord, Desiree McCray and Megan Spencer.

All three seniors played key roles in the 2015 lineup, as Spencer led the team in kills, McCray boasted the most blocks and McCord was one of the mainstays in the backrow. Senior leadership will play a vital part in this year's team, but this offseason showed others stepping up as well.

"Every day we had moments of great leadership from different people in different areas of the program," Stemke said. "Whether it was in the classroom, the community, the weight room or the court, we had a raising of the bar so to speak. The exciting part of that was it wasn't coming from a few people, but from all different areas of our locker room. Leadership is an area in which we are asking all to participate at different times, and we will need that balance throughout the year."

That balance is provided in a great mix of veteran and youth. A potent junior class and a strong sophomore class serves as a powerful corps to go with the seniors while three standout newcomers in freshmen Meghan Donovan and Kianna Young and sophomore transfer Katie Houser bring a new energy for a team facing a tough slate of opponents in 2016.

The challenges will come in plenty during the Bulldogs' schedule with six foes claiming a spot in the 2015 NCAA Tournament, including three opponents moving past the first round. Of the 25 opponents on the slate, eight ranked in the top 100 RPI by the end of the 2015 season, including four in the top 25 and two in the top 10.

"This team and program is eager and hungry for a new season ahead," Stemke said. "We all feel like we have much to prove, but more importantly we know we are in a stronger, more solidified place to attack the year. Our preseason schedule will have us local the majority of the time with the exception of our Boston trip in which we will play at two different sites while traveling.

"Our SEC season will once again prove challenging, but just as with every passing year and the turnover on all rosters, the conference will once again look slightly different. The growing parity in our league is a strength of the SEC, and we are excited to get it started with the 2016 roster."

LIZZY STEMKE

HEAD COACH
SIXTH SEASON
WISCONSIN '04

Lizzy Stemke was named head coach of the University of Georgia women's volleyball program on Dec. 22, 2010. Stemke, the sixth head coach at Georgia since the program's inception in 1978, came to Athens having spent four seasons as an assistant coach at the University of Nebraska.

Under Stemke's tutelage, Georgia has recorded 66 wins, including 31 victories against Southeastern Conference opponents. Stemke guided a veteran squad to the NCAA Tournament in 2013 after a nine-year hiatus for the program.

Individually, the program has had five SEC Player of the Week and two All-SEC honors added to its all-time award winners since Stemke's arrival. Off the court, 25 SEC Academic Honor Roll members, eight SEC Freshman Academic Honor Roll selections, a CoSIDA Academic All-District honoree and four SEC Community Service Team picks highlight a well-rounded Georgia team with Stemke at the helm.

Coaching Career

With a youthful squad in 2015, it was a season of transition in Stemke's fifth year, as the team had a lot of new faces learning a new system. Multiple Bulldogs stepped up as team leaders, including the lone redshirt senior Jasmine Eatmon, who set her place in Georgia history, as her .308 hitting percentage is seventh and 302 block assists are 10th in Georgia's all-time career records. Amanda Dachs, Megan Spencer and Desiree McCray all earned spots on all-tournament teams while Maddie Lobenstein was named MVP of the Benson Hospitality Invitational. Off the court, Elle McCord garnered the SEC Community Service Award.

In 2014, Stemke's fourth season at Georgia, the Bulldogs finished with a 14-17 record that included a 5-13 mark in SEC play. Highlighting the season was McCray earning SEC Defensive Player of the Week honors, the first win over in-state rival Georgia Tech since 2005, a 1,000 career kill performer and a season sweep of Missouri.

Stemke's third season in Athens was a historic one, as the program reached the NCAA Tournament for the first time since 2004. She guided the team to a 22-10 record, its best record since 1994, and posted a 3-2 win over then-No. 15 Kentucky, Georgia's first win over a ranked team in the Stemke era. The Bulldogs finished fourth in the SEC with an 11-9 record. Under her leadership, Brittany Northcutt was named to the All-SEC team while Lauren Teknipp was named to the CoSIDA Academic All-District team.

Stemke led the Bulldogs to an overall record of 14-16 in her second season. The recordeincluded eight wins over SEC opponents. She also coached Eatmon to the SEC All-Freshman team and two SEC Freshman of the Week honors. Stemke led the Bulldogs to a season sweep of Alabama and Mississippi State and wins over LSU and Missouri. The victory at LSU was the first win in Baton Rouge for a Bulldog team since 2001. The team also took perennial league powers Tennessee and Kentucky to five sets.

During her first season in Athens in 2011, Georgia went 11-19 overall, including a 7-13 record in Southeastern Conference play finishing tied sixth in the league.

"Frankly I'm still kind of waiting for them to call me and say just kidding," said Stemke. "It's an incredible honor that doesn't quite feel real, but a lot of people were at work at Wisconsin to make this happen, and it's actually quite overwhelming."

Then known as Lizzy Fitzgerald, Stemke's playing career for the Badgers ranged from 1998-01. A three-year starter and team captain from 2000-01, she helped Wisconsin to a 112-23 record over her career.

Alexandra Oquendo

Life after Georgia has seen many volleyball alums excel at the highest level. Two Bulldogs continued action on the court, playing with their home countries at the Olympics. Alexandra Oquendo (2002-05) played with Puerto Rico at the 2016 Rio Olympics while Elizabeth Reid (2010-11) was part of Great Britain's team at the 2012 London Olympics. Jenny McDowell (1984-87) took to the sideline, making Emory Volleyball a national presence during her 20-year coaching career. McDowell's efforts have led her to earn the 2016 Bill Hartman Award, one of the University's highest honors given to a former UGA student-athlete. Maria Taylor (2005-08) is on the sideline in a different way, as she is one of the more prominent figures for ESPN and the SEC Network. Taylor moves into a hosting role in 2016 as part of SEC Nation.
